

HISTORIAN/ HISTORIC FIELD SUPERVISOR

Alpine Archaeological Consultants, Inc. (Alpine) is a small business that engages solely in contracted cultural resource studies throughout the Rocky Mountain West, Great Basin, and Southwestern states.

Alpine has an immediate opening for an Archaeological Field Supervisor in Montrose, Colorado. This individual will serve as a field supervisor for inventory, testing, and excavation projects in Colorado, Utah, and Wyoming. We are specifically seeking a well-rounded archaeologist who specializes in historical archaeology.

Responsibilities

The position is a project-level supervisory position and requires experience in CRM in the Rocky Mountain and Great Basin states. Responsibilities include conducting background research, survey and excavation fieldwork, and laboratory analysis; writing reports; and coordinating with other Alpine staff members. Work tasks will involve determinations of National Register eligibility, evaluation of impacts, and design of mitigation measures. This work can include all types of cultural resources, not just historical archaeological sites. Skills include working independently, working on teams, and being able to serve as a field crew supervisor. Applicants should be able to demonstrate excellence in technical writing, ability and experience in all areas of archaeological inquiry (research, survey, excavation, analysis),

Qualifications

- Sufficient experience in CRM, preferably involving Section 106 compliance projects, to meet federal and state agency permitting requirements as a Field Director in Colorado, Utah, and/or Wyoming. Preference will be given to those with a Master's degree.
- An ability to identify late nineteenth and early twentieth-century artifacts in the field, prepare architectural descriptions, conduct historical research using primary courthouse and other archival sources, and conducting research on artifacts, manufacturers, and technology.
- Proficiency at the identification, recordation, and evaluation of archaeological sites of prehistoric and historical archaeological sites.
- Have good interpersonal and communication skills.
- Willingness to travel often.
- Proficiency with software such as MS Word, Access, and Excel

Salary and Benefit Package

At this time, we will consider individuals interested in seasonal or staff positions. Ultimately we will fill this position as a full-time staff position. Per diem (currently $39 per day) and lodging is provided for projects outside of the local (Montrose) area. Salary is dependant on qualifications, but is generally between $38,000 and $45,000 per year. Staff benefits include: paid holidays, health and disability insurance upon hire, paid sick and vacation leave (after probation), professional development funding at completion of the probationary period, and eligibility for a profit-sharing retirement (401k) plan at the completion of 1 year employment.

Please send a current vita with the names and phone numbers of at least three references. Include a cover letter stating how we may contact you and the dates you are first available.
